

On January 19, in celebration of Martin Luther King Jr. Day, the students and faculty members of IU School of Optometry volunteered their skills and time for a worthwhile “Donate-an-Eye-Exam” event at the Community Eye Care Center. Thanks to the joint efforts of IU School of Optometry and the Bloomington Salvation Army, 50 residents of Monroe County who have no medical insurance or the financial resources to obtain eye care were able to receive a full exam and eye glasses for free. The Indiana Daily Student wrote an excellent piece on this event, which can be viewed at <http://www.idsnews.com/news/story.aspx?id=65505&comview=1>.

We would like to thank everyone who helped out for this wonderful event. Special thanks to Dr. Henderson for the countless hours that she put into the coordination of the event. More than 50 faculty members and students volunteered their time on Monday and made the event possible. Volunteers from Salvation Army, Volunteers in Medicine and the Central Lions Club were also present. The Central Lions Club and the City of Bloomington graciously donated towards the cost of eyeglasses and Essilor donated polycarbonate lenses for the event. Lunch was also donated by Panera Bread and McAlister’s Deli.

We would like to recognize everyone from the School of Optometry who made the event a reality.
